The idea for Sundays could work well and is certainly worth trialing. Drop Wednesday rides for time being, however if anyone fancies an extra ride last minute or off the cuff this can be arranged through the group chat. I did this a number of times on Fridays this year finding a ride buddy everytime. (Fin)

Question 6 I don't mind which organisation. But I like to join so we know we all have insurance. Are there notes showing advantage of cycling UK above BC?

Sec Response

In response to the comment. The major advantage of being affiliated to British Cycling is the club management tool which provides a database of current and former members and allows collection of annual membership; Cycling UK does not manage memberships. Otherwise both organisations provide similar support to our level of activity ie club rides. Notably, neither organisation provides insurance cover for individual members as part of club affiliation. The insurance cover provided is for club officials conducting activities on behalf of the club. If you want 3rd party insurance you must be an individual member of either BC, Cycling UK or purchase cycle insurance.
